Sources: OCFS Juvenile Justice Information Systems (JJIS) database and Children and Youth Services Review (CCRS) database. In 2013, OCFS revised the legal codes utilized for identification of youth.
Note: If a youth was in both JJIS (OCFS custody) and CCRS as LDSS Custody, it was assumed that the youth was only in OCFS custody during the year. This impacts a very small number of youth. In 2013, legal codes to identify LDSS JD youth was expanded/revised. As a result, LDSS JD numbered provided here are not comparable to previous analysis.
