

Non-New York City Jail Population Analysis of 10-Year (2006-2015) Trends

The average daily census figures reported in this report are based on the daily counts submitted by each jail outside New York City through the Jails Daily Population Reporting System (JDPRS). The county jail census is categorized by type of inmate housed in the county jail – Sentenced, Civil, Federal, Technical Parole Violators, State Readies, and Unsented. Definitions are included at the back of this report.

The make-up of the jail population outside New York City has changed over the 10-year period from 2006 through 2015. The overall non-NYC jail population decreased (-8%) since 2006, with an average daily census of 15,516 in 2015. Sentenced inmates serving a county jail term are down (-19%) in 2015 compared to 10 years ago, and is the lowest recorded since 1997. There was a slight decrease (-1%) in the number of Unsented inmates over the 10-year period. The Unsented population includes inmates either awaiting arraignment, trial or sentencing by the court. Those ultimately sentenced to jail or prison receive credit for any time already served while in an “unsented” status. The average number of Federal inmates was 991 in 2015, a 26% decline from the high in 2011.

The State Ready population includes jail inmates who have been sentenced to state prison and are awaiting intake into prison by the State Department of Corrections and Community Supervision (DOCCS). Outside New York City, the number of State Ready jail inmates averaged 228 in 2015, maintaining the lower levels seen this past decade. When DOCCS initiates violation proceedings on those under parole supervision, alleged violators are housed in local jails. The number of Parole Violators held in local jail on a parole warrant averaged 819 in 2015, representing an increase from recent years. Technical parole violators and state-ready inmates comprised only 7% of the jail population in 2015.
