SUBJECT: 2014-2015 Probationer Employment Chart

The DCJS Office of Probation and Correctional Alternatives is pleased to provide the annual New York State Probationer Employment Report for 2014-2015. This report provides probation departments with a snapshot of probationer employment as reported in the annual probation applications and plans. The probationer employment information reflects the number of probationers employed as a percent of those determined by probation to be employable, as well as a percent of those under supervision as listed in the Integrated Probation Registrant System.

As you know, various factors account for the disparity between the number of probationers employed and those employed in the general population, including the collateral consequences and challenges associated with a criminal conviction, physical and behavioral health, disability, and lack of employment readiness. With respect to employment readiness, DCJS continues to provide training in the NIC Offender Workforce Development Specialists—“Ready, Set, Work!” Training probationers in the competencies that support sustained employment continues to be a goal that leads to self-sufficiency and reduced offender recidivism.

During the course of the four regional Re-entry Employment Summits DCJS convened last year, NYS Department of Labor Regional Economists provided jobs information that is available on the agency website specific to various regions throughout New York State. The Jobs Express information by region can be found at the DOL website <http://www.labor.ny.gov/jobs/regional.shtm>. The Jobs Express current job openings for the Capitol Region is presented below as an example. We believe this information may be helpful in directing probationers to the DOL Career Centers or assisting them in their own searches for employment.
