Freddy returned home after serving 24 years in state prison. He credits the support and services he received through the County Re-Entry Task Force in his community for making that transition successful.

So, for anyone wondering if the Re-Entry Task Force actually helps? Yes. It basically saved my life and for that, I will be forever grateful.

ABOUT COUNTY RE-ENTRY TASK FORCES (CRTFS)

County Re-Entry Task Forces (CRTFs) are located in New York City and upstate counties and are designed to help individuals who are returning to their communities after release from state prison.

Two state agencies — the Division of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS) and Department of Corrections and Community Supervision (DOCCS) — collaborate to support the CRTFs.

Each CRTF works with DCJS, DOCCS, county and community agencies, and human service providers to help eligible individuals get programs and services that meet their needs when returning to the community.

Participants include individuals referred to the CRTF from NYS DOCCS either pre-release or post-release, discharged from state incarceration on their maximum expiration date as well as individuals formerly on community supervision. Eligible participants also include those who are engaged in the revocation (violation) process while on community supervision. Individuals currently serving a term of either federal or county probation are not eligible for CRTF services.
